

ABOUT TEAM PUNTA GORDA

TEAM Punta Gorda represents a collection of over 2000 interested citizens who are dedicated to continually improving the quality of life in the city. We do this by working with local government officials, developers, business owners, and residents on projects to better the community. This is done through a number of active committees which focus on specific areas. These committees include members with a wide range of professional experiences and backgrounds which can be brought to bear on a given problem. For example, the TEAM Architectural Committee has a number of both active and retired architects and engineers, as well as those with business backgrounds, who can easily interact with their professional counterparts on a building design.

TEAM has a close relationship with city officials concerned with development and provides a channel for reasoned citizen input to them. At the same time, as a purely non-governmental organization, TEAM members can meet with those from the private sector to offer opinions and suggestions in complete confidence. We have served as a sounding board for ideas and have made numerous recognized contributions to the city's successful rebirth since that fateful day in 2004 which destroyed much of the infrastructure, but at the same time left a golden opportunity to create an even more attractive and livable community. We welcome your participation in this process.
